REBEL RALLY
FEATURES N.C.
FIELD RITES

A gathering of governors, concerts by the 26th N.C. Regimental Band and the South Rowan High School Rebel Band and remarks by Gov. Terry Sanford and State Senator Hector MacLean of Robeson County featured the rededication ceremonies Monday at 4:30 p.m. of the famed North Carolina monument on West Confederate Ave.

For a while the monument scene looked like a political rally. Besides the governors, many members of the North Carolina congressional delegation, including John A. May and Horace Koragy, and former Governor Luther Hodges, now secretary of commerce, were in attendance.

Among the governors were William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, Donald Russell of South Carolina, Karl F. Roivaag of Minnesota and Endicott Peabody of Massachusetts. Louis Goldstein, comptroller of the State of Maryland, represented Governor Milard Tawes.

An enthusiastic crowd of about 1,000 people milled around the Gettysburg monument, watching the Confederate clad troops, carrying battle flags, sabers and assorted Civil War paraphernalia. The 26th Regiment Band, oldest brass band in the United States dating back to 1772, entertained using authentic Civil War band instruments and playing a variety of songs. "Dixie," of chorus, brought a chorus of rebel yells.

Dr. Donald Heiges, president of the Lutheran Seminary, offered the invocation and benediction; Norman C. Larson, executive secretary of the N.C. Confederate Centennial Commission, introduced the guests; Gov. Sanford welcomed the guests; Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Shelby, N.C., wife of a former governor under whose administration the monument was erected, spoke briefly.

In his rededication address, Senator MacLean, also the son of a former North Carolina governor, struck a responsive chord when he noted that "the great victory of the men who fell at Gettysburg came after they met what the world called defeat."

Army Field Band
Plays In Square

The U. S. Army Field Band, led by Major Robert L. Bierly, thrilled an audience of several thousand people Monday night in Lincoln Square.

In a previously unannounced appearance by the group which has proved extremely popular here, the band set up chairs on the southwest quadrant of the square and began its concert about 8 o'clock.

A crowd, anticipating a concert as preparations advanced, had gathered before the program began. When the music began, additional hundreds came to the scene and throughout the concert a large crowd filled the corner of the square.

Part of the street was blocked off to permit the public to watch and hear the performance.

N. CAROLINA RECEPTION IS HELD MONDAY

The 26th North Carolina Regimental band, playing instruments of a century ago, one of which was used 100 years ago at Gettysburg and continues to give forth with an unusually mellow tone, provided music Monday night for the reception held by North Carolina in the Hotel Gettysburg pressroom.

North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford was host for the event held by the North Carolina Confederate War Centennial Commission.

A number of governors were present along with Gettysburg, county and state officials, and the members of the South Carolina Centennial Commission and others from South Carolina, who in turn will play host to the North Carolina representatives and others tonight at another reception at the pressroom.

The "rebel yell" resounded through the pressroom Monday night each time the band played "Dixie." Enjoying the "Dixie" rendition and the rebel yells as much as anyone else were the "northern" representatives headed by Gov. Elliott Peabody, of Massachusetts, and his aides.

Southern hospitality and charm made the reception a delight for all, especially those Gettysburgians and Adams Countyans who were among the invited guests.

The 26th Regimental band, second oldest in the U.S., was founded in Salem, now Winston-Salem, N. C., in 1766 and many of its members today are descendants of the original band members.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three American college students told a Cuban radio audience Monday they are greatly impressed by the Fidel Castro regime. One said he found "almost complete freedom."

The Americans, members of a group of 59 students who reached Cuba from the United States by Communist Czechoslovakia, arrived in Havana Sunday. They have been warned of possible prosecution when they get home.

HUGHES SEES
WAR PROMISE
UNFULFILLED

The moral crisis facing America today is as great as it was 100 years ago, Governor Richard J. Hughes told more than 500 people who jammed the natural amphitheater surrounding the New Jersey Monument off Sedgewick Ave. late Monday afternoon for the rededication of the monument to New Jersey's 4,500 volunteers, who fought at Gettysburg "so that we might be one nation, one people."

The governor said, "We come here to rededicate not merely a monument but ourselves to the purpose and promise for which they fought." His address was part of a 90-minute program which opened with an invocation by Rev. Samuel C. Carpenter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Madison, N. J., who prayed for "a more secure way of life" and "understanding to enrich our lives."

Donald Flamm, chairman of the New Jersey Centennial Commission, unveiled a concrete bench which has been erected in front of the monument. Kittredge A. Wing, National Park superintendent, accepted the bench for the Park Service. Conrad L. Wirth, department of interior, was one of the honored guests, and the program also was attended by Massachusetts Governor Endicott Peabody.

ACHIEVEMENTS LAG

Hughes emphasized that the Civil War was fought to save the Union, but that "the achievements of America have not matched its promise."

"It is our shame at this moment that the full benefits of freedom are not the possession

MAY ASK RT. 15
BIDS IN SPRING

The "missing link" in the construction of Route 15 between Gettysburg and Harrisburg may be ready for bidding by next spring, it was announced Monday by the state Department of Highways at Harrisburg.

The eight-mile section between the York Springs bypass and the northern end of the Gettysburg bypass is on the planning boards now, a department spokesman told The Gettysburg Times.

"If planning continues on schedule, if the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads gives its approval and if expected funds are available, the department will ask bids in the spring of 1964 for the construction work on at least two lanes and possibly on the complete four lanes," the announcement from District Engineer James Whalen said.

The Gettysburg bypass will get its other two lanes "as soon as possible" but no date has been put on the construction schedule. The bypass has been built with state and federal funds on a 50-50 sharing plan.

MASSACHUSETTS BATTERY
A heavy battery representing Massachusetts is encamped at Baird Hershey's camp grounds 1 mile south of York Springs. The group moved cannon in by plane and box car for Centennial operations at Gettysburg.

FIRE POLICE TO MEET

The Adams County Fire Police Association will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at Irishstown, Secretary William J. Shafer announced today.

Special Fireworks
Tonight At Park

The "Louisiana Tigers" will again meet "Rickett's Battery" atop E. Cemetery Hill—this time in fireworks—at the Gettysburg Firemen's festival tonight at Recreation Field.

The festival opened Monday night with what was described as "good attendance" for an opening night.

Featured at the festival are a high wire act, and all types of rides and games for the young and old, plus fireworks beauty and presentation of special battle connected scenes.

The firemen this year are seeking funds to purchase a new ladder truck and new ambulance.

SOUR CHERRY
PICKING OPENS
HERE MONDAY

Sour cherry picking began in many county orchards Monday and the Great Lakes Cherry Producers' Marketing Cooperative called a meeting of its members and other interested persons this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Biglerville High School library.

B. I. Freeman, the cooperative's secretary-manager, will be present to discuss cherry prices, carryover and current marketing conditions, an announcement today said.

A small carryover from last year and a national cherry crop that is below normal are contributing to better prices for cherries this season, cooperative members said.

The county crop, while wiped out by cold weather in some sections and hurt by hail in others, is expected to be about 70 per cent of normal. Cherries in Erie County have been wiped out, according to reports.

The Knouse Foods Cooperative at Peach Glen started processing fruit Monday but its Ortanna plant is not in operation this week. The Musselman plant at Biglerville is scheduled to go into operation Friday of this week. The Inwood, W. Va., plant opened Monday.

Some reports today said the county crop is "good" and "better than any other cherry-growing area in the country."

IT WAS HOTTER
HERE IN 1913

It was hot here on Monday but 50 years ago on the same date—the 50th battle anniversary celebration was in progress—it was hotter.

The hottest July 1 on record in Gettysburg was in 1913 when the temperatures soared to a withering 101 degrees. On Monday the high here was 93, making it the hottest July 1 here in 10 years.

All of the battle anniversary days were hot in 1913. On July 2 the high was 96, 92 on July 3 and 93 on the Fourth of July.

Governor Scranton in his address Monday afternoon at the Eternal Light Peace Memorial departed from his prepared text to note that, 100 years ago, July heat had to be endured by the battling armies here in 1863 in addition to the rigors of combat.

260 Persons Attend
Scranton Luncheon

More than 260 men and women were guests at Governor William W. Scranton's luncheon at the Hotel Gettysburg Monday noon preceding the opening centennial program at the Eternal Light Peace Memorial.

Preceding the luncheon Governor and Mrs. Scranton received guests in the parlors of the hotel. The guests included a number of governors who are in Gettysburg for the centennial observance.

AUTOS COLLIDE

At 8:56 p.m. Saturday automobiles driven by Oswald F. Kerstetter, 72, Hanover R. 3, and Lewis B. Reaver, 49, Littlestown, collided in Hanover, according to Hanover police. Police said the Kerstetter car was going east on Park Ave., stopped for the posted stop sign and pulled between a line of traffic lined up and heading for Center Square. As the car attempted a left turn it was in collision with the Reaver auto.

Damage to the Kerstetter auto was $10 and to the Reaver auto, $50, police reported.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

"What I was surprised to see was religious freedom and the completeness of the change from capitalist living conditions," he added.

Gordon Smith, an economics student at New York University, described himself as "very impressed, I like very much what I see, and I'm very happy that I had this chance to come and see for myself."

Only the Puerto Rican spoke in Spanish. The others gave their views through an interpreter.

Benner's pool at Fairfield will be open to the public beginning at 1 p.m. Wednesday, it was announced today. Demaree Dear-dorf, a qualified life guard from Gettysburg, will be on duty. Her services are provided by the Fairfield Lions Club.

2,000 INITIATE
AMPHITHEATER
HERE FOR NPS

Approximately 2,000 helped inaugurate the National Park's new amphitheater in Pitzer's Woods Monday night in a campfire program which Dr. Harry Pfanz, local Park Service historian, told the audience, "will, we hope, become a tradition at Gettysburg."

Reaction of the audience, which included Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, indicated that, if the succeeding performances are as successful as the "opening night" event, the "campfires" will become a top feature of the field.

Dr. Pfanz said the "campfire" programs were a tradition in the western national parks but infrequent in eastern parks such as Gettysburg. He said the amphitheater in which the audience was gathered was in a woods where Co. Berdan led his sharpshooters, plus Maine troops, on the afternoon of July 2, 1863, "to find the Confederate army" and located Alabama troops marching by the woods. A sharp skirmish occurred at the site, initiated by Berdan to hold up the Confederate advance and warn Sickles of the approach of the Confederate troops.

2 RANGERS SPEAK

National Park Rangers Ike McCloskey, of Chevy Chase, Md., and Bert Kummerow provided a "discussion" on "The Civil War Soldier" to open the "campfire" event.

Kummerow was garbed as a Union soldier in complete uniform. His outfit included a wig which gave him the appearance of having the old time "square" haircut.

Ranger McCloskey told the audience that "most of the soldiers were young country boys and city clerks. Their officers too were young. They carried their own food and equipment. At best their uniforms must have been hot and uncomfortable particularly after days of hot and sweaty marching in mud and dust."

DEMONSTRATES FIRING

"The Union soldier, as you can see from Ranger Kummerow's outfit, wore an insignia on his kepi or cap. The one shown is of the Third Corps. He carried a bayonet which was more used as a holder for candles or for cooking, than for fighting. He carried his rations in his haversack and his blanket roll also contained, for the Union soldier, half of a tent. The Confederate soldier sometimes had a carpet instead of a blanket in his blanket roll. Their lead bullets flattened when they struck and tore huge holes in those they hit. There were many amputations necessary. Their rifles were accurate up to 200 yards and had a range of about a mile."

He described the loading of the

Two Men Jailed For Disorderliness

Borough police reported a number of incidents during the night, mostly a case of asking someone what noisy groups to "move on and quiet down."

Two men were arrested at the Recreation Field and lodged in jail, charged with being disorderly before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder. They were Glenn Swiger, Martinsburg, W. Va., and William Swiger, White-marsh, Md. They were said to be brothers.

Borough police found a "lost child" crying on Breckenridge St. at 3:15 o'clock this morning. They learned where he lived and took him home.

Leroy B. Reaver, 26, Hanover R. 4, suffered a broken left ankle and a laceration of the right knee when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Dorothy A. Reaver, 48, Hanover R. 4, four miles west of McSherrystown at 10:45 Sunday morning.

According to police, Dorothy Reaver was driving west and the motorcycle east when the two collided in the east lane of traffic. Damage to the car was estimated at $300 and to the new motorcycle at $1,145.

The McSherrystown ambulance removed Reaver to the Hanover Hospital.

REBEL "SUB"
MODEL SHOWN

The full scale reproduction of the Civil War Confederate submarine "Hunley" is proving a star of the Army-Navy Post Office Department display at the Gettysburg Junior High School.

The "Hunley" is on the south parking lot of the Junior High School between the Army Civil War display van and the school itself. Peeking in the portholes of the submarine rebuilt by the South Carolina Confederate War Centennial Commission, the spectators can see the men at the long hand operated crankshaft by which the ship was operated. Thirty-six men died in the sub's tragic career which ended as it sank a ship and itself.

The High Point (N. C.) College Caravan of American History, a group of nine students and three professors studying McClellan's peninsula campaign first-hand, rolled into Gettysburg Sunday evening to carry out their homework on the Battle of Gettysburg during the centennial celebration.

Dr. David Cole, chairman of the History Department, is in charge of the scholarly junket. His aides are Dr. Stuart Deskins, the "Mr. Chips" of High Point and former head of the History Department, and Jesse L. Taylor, dean of student personnel.

Among the nine students are a married coed, Mrs. J. E. Cummings; a 14-year-old high school Junior, George Gaskins; Mrs. Cummings' son, John; Roger Bridges, Oakie Campe, Pete Hepler, Robert Hislop Jr., Robert Reese and Mike Winstead. All but one are North Carolinians, Hislop being a transplanted Colorado whose father now heads the Economics Department at High Point.

The caravan has traced the peninsula campaign in detail for eight days, camping out frequently, rising as early as 5:30 a.m., bolting food cooked by Dr. Cole, then tramping around the historical sites for eight or nine hours a day. Before making the trip, they had a quick refresher taking them through the Civil War materials they needed to supplement the on-site investigations.

PRAYER BY LOCAL PASTOR

Boy and Girl Scouts served as wreath bearers as the official state representatives, many of them governors, placed their states' wreaths and then took their appointed places in the platform at the base of the peace light memorial.

Trumpeters and drummers were participating from the Valley Forge Military Academy.

The Rev. Lena M. Parr, pastor of the AME Zion Church here, gave the invocation. She prayed for God's blessings "on our nation and the world, on these states and their governors" and that "all races come together as one and unite Thy holy presence."

GENERAL DAY SPEAKS

Deviating from the printed program, the presentation of Postmaster General Day came next and he delivered a prepared address formally dedicating the new stamp. He said in part:

"In today's world of a divided Germany, a divided Europe, a divided China, Gettysburg provides a beacon light of hope for reunification. In the face of disappointments and failures in our American efforts for a nuclear test ban treaty and for disarmament, Gettysburg should remind us never to lose heart, because the stakes are so momentous in the effort for peace."

In conclusion he said: "I hope that the Gettysburg Centennial will make people think not of the specious horror of battle but of its abject horror and degradation. And I hope that the 130 million Gettysburg stamps we are issuing following this dedication today will remind Americans not of bitterness and internecine strife but of the preservation of the Union and of the freedom and the greatness of the United States."

HOT WEATHER TO CONTINUE THROUGH EAST

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cooler air spread across northern areas of the Midwest today bringing some relief from a spell of hot weather, but more muggy weather clung to wide areas in the eastern half of the nation.

The cool front extended from the northern Great Lakes southward into southeast Colorado. Showers broke out along the front. Fairly cool weather also was reported along the Pacific Coast, with temperatures in the 50s.

The mercury bubbled up to nearly 100 degrees in many cities Monday with temperatures generally in the 90s and 80s in many sections. Philadelphia, with a steamy 97, reported its seventh straight day of 90-plus temperature.

Many cities reported record marks for July 1. Some of the hot spots included Chicago and Boise, Idaho, 99; Milwaukee, Boston and Albuquerque, N. M., 96; Des Moines, 97, and Omaha 95. Highest readings were 111 in Bluth and Imperial, Calif., and 110 in Yuma, Ariz.

are thankful for the quarters arranged by Gettysburg College—real beds, hot water, showers.

In addition the students have free run here. At other sites they did conducted tours and visited sites like the Richmond Museum, the Battle Abbey, Hollywood Cemetery as a group. Each is pursuing a "war" angle of his choice. Mrs. Cummings, for example, is working on the 26th North Carolina Regiment, "the first to fight and the last to surrender." All will do term papers when they return.

CAMPFIRE SESSIONS

At the beginning the students had regular campfire sessions at night to acquaint one another with their progress, but lately Dr. Cole confesses, "We're all so tired from covering ground that we collapse at the first sight of an air mattress."

The purpose of the junket is to introduce the students first-hand to the "dynamics of war, its problems and effects both on the Confederacy and the Union. Through the historical pilgrimage the students are brought into contact with the environment which gave birth to the great moments of history. History, then, becomes a vital force."

Two other summer trips are on Dr. Cole's schedule, a caravan over the area of Sherman's march next summer and another that will examine the four campaigns of Grant in the southwest.

Both students and teachers are enthusiastic even if they are dog-tired. History has moved off the book pages to become something immediate and real.

Attracting most attention among the band instruments, most of which are reproductions of those of a century ago, is one more-than-a-century-old "Bombardon," which compares to today's E flat bass.

Eisenhower Visits His Boyhood Home

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower planned to spend today and Wednesday in Abilene, his boyhood home, and city officials hoped to keep the visit as quiet as possible for such a popular guest.

Eisenhower's private railroad car was to sit on a special siding near the old Eisenhower family home and the Eisenhower library.

This will be the former President's first visit in two years. No formal program was planned. Most of Eisenhower's official papers are stored in the $1 million library and he has said on several occasions he hoped to be able to spend more time here.

Weddings

Myers-Baker

Miss Darlene Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin E. Baker, Abbottstown R. 1, became the bride of Gerald Elwood Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Myers, New Oxford R. 1, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at St. Paul's United Church of Christ, New Oxford, where the Rev. John Z. Martin performed the double-ring ceremony by candlelight.

The church was decorated with pink and white carnations and palms. Mrs. Daryl Mehring presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Wayne Rogers, who sang "Because," "O, Perfect Love," Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta with a fitted bodice of silk illusion which had a scooped neckline and cape sleeves, with appliques of Alencon lace and seed pearls. The front flared skirt was designed with appliques of matching lace, with a self bow at the waistline in the back, ending in a chapel train. She carried a front-line bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Suzanne Redding, Arlington, Va., and the bridesmaids, Miss Marlene Smith and Miss Judy Wineka, Spring Grove, and Miss Sara Smeltz, New Oxford, cousins of the bride, were gowned alike in floor-length gowns of heavenly blue organza over taffeta, fashioned with scoop necklines, elbow-length sleeves and controlled skirts. They wore matching headpieces.

Noel Taylor, Downingtown, Pa., served as best man. The ushers were John Carr, Trenton, N.J., and Larry Baker, brother of the bride.

Gregory Hagerman, McSherrystown, was the ringbearer. The flower girls, Lona Huff and Kathy Baker, Abbottstown, wore white dresses and carried baskets containing carnations.

The bride's mother wore a sheath dress of heavenly blue organza over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. The groom's mother wore a mauve sheath of silk embroidered eyelet with matching accessories and a similar corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Abbottstown Fire Hall, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination. For traveling the bride wore a yellow and white ensemble of imported linen with accessories to match. Upon their return they will reside at Chelmsford, Mass.

The bride graduated from New Oxford High School in the class of 1959 and from Shippensburg State College in 1962. She will teach in the Chelmsford schools. The groom graduated in the same class at high school and recently completed four years of service with the U.S. Navy. He will attend the Lowell Technological Institute at Lowell, Mass.

Out-of-town guests were present from Camp Hill, Waynesboro, Va.; Downingtown and New Jersey.

He then gave Kummerow two minutes in which to see how many shots he could fire from the musket. The ranger worked at top speed and got off five shots within the time, and won applause from the audience for his efforts.

Ranger John Smarsh was projectionist for the showing of the film on Gettysburg made by Dore Schary for Metro Goldwyn Mayer with Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National Park at that time, as consultant for the film.

The campfire is to be repeated tonight and throughout the summer.

BLAME LAID ON ARSONIST

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A general alarm fire blamed on an arsonist swept a vacant building today in downtown Pittsburgh.

Fire Chief Stephen Adley, who said the blaze was set deliberately, estimated damage to the six-story structure at some $35,000.

The blaze broke out about 5:30 a. m. in the old Star Jobbing Co. building at 307 Market St., a heavily congested section of the city.

Firemen said that when they arrived the entire building was filled with smoke and flames. They brought the fire under control in about two hours. No injuries were reported.

Fire hoses and other equipment blocked the narrow streets in the area, and traffic had to be rerouted, resulting in tie-ups during the morning rush period.

FORMER COED HAS PLAY LEAD

Miss Janet Anderson will star in this week's presentation by the new Gettysburg Summer Theater, Henri, Becque's "Woman of Paris," which opens this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the arena playhouse, 109 Chambersburg St. Miss Anderson is a graduate of Gettysburg College where she played major female roles in numerous stage productions.

"Woman of Paris" is a fun-filled French farce that tells the topsy-turvy tale of a beautiful woman, her husband and another man — "a close friend of the family." The comedy will be offered through Saturday night.

The Gettysburg production also stars Charles Plese, Richard K. Olsen, Norman Rice and Linda Bucher. Reserved tickets for any of this week's performances are available at $2 each (tax included).

Yogi Berra Breaks All-Star String

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankee catcher-coach Yogi Berra failed to make the American League All-Star team this year, breaking a string of 14 consecutive seasons in which the stubby receiver has appeared in at least one game.

Berra, a three-time Most Valuable Player for the Yankees, first was named to the All-Star team in 1949, and has appeared in at least one All-Star attraction each year since.

The 38-year-old catcher, who now doubles as a coach for the Yankees, is hitting only .196 in 26 games for the defending world champions. He has been used principally as a pinch hitter.

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Robert Schultz, 68, of Pittston, Pa., died of a heart attack Monday at the wheel of his auto which then crashed into a concrete pillar.

Two passengers, Schultz' widow Anna, 65, and a son, David, 16, suffered minor injuries. They were hospitalized in Passaic.

Pennsylvania

The state Senate faces a showdown vote on the Scranton administration's watered down compulsory school district reorganization bill. Democrats hoped to salvage at least part of the 1961 reorganization law, but their attempts appeared futile.

A new administration bill calling for a convention to update Pennsylvania's 89-year-old constitution is before the Senate. The measure would take the place of one offered last April.

The dual dioramas in the Army Civil War van near the submarine also are proving fascinating. Most spectators not only gain a clearer idea of army life but wonder at the mechanics by which a three-dimensional scene showing a Union Camp can in seconds become a Confederate scene, or a daytime scene show or something else at night.

Inside the gymnasium in addition to numerous displays including Brady pictures of the Civil War, Army and Navy displays, are the approximately 300 drawings entered in the competition to determine the design for the Gettysburg Battle Commemorative Stamp.

Gettysburg Commemorative Stamp Is Dedicated; 20 Acres Of Battle Land Given To U.S.; Scranton Talks Monday

ounced the first album of Gettysburg stamps will be presented soon to President Kennedy and he handed the second to Governor Scranton. The third went to John A. Carver Jr., assistant secretary of the Department of the Interior; the fourth to Congressman George A. Goodling; the fifth to General Baker; the sixth to William Buchanan Gold, a representative of the Loyal Legion; the seventh to Robert D. Sommer, Harrisburg, vice president of the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association; the eighth to Gettysburg's acting postmaster, Charles W. Pentz, and the ninth to the designer of the stamp, Roy Gjersten, winner of a $500 prize for his winning design from among more than 1,000 entries.

Presentation of the deeds for two sections of battlefield land to the Department of the Interior followed. One is part of the Meals farm and the other is near the railroad cut, also on the first day's field. The tracts total about 20 acres.

"NEED YOUR SUPPORT"

In the presentation for the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association, Vice President Hoff-sommer referred to the beginnings of his association at a Civil War study group here in 1959 and said:

"We have operated on the proverbial shoestring in order that money contributed may go as nearly as possible 100 per cent into land purchase. A year ago, through your contributions, we were enabled to present to the American people the important Wolf tract of 55 acres the land over which Hood's Confederates advanced in the Second Day's battle, for the attack on Little Round Top and the Devil's Den ridge line of the Union III Corps. This land of the Wolf tract is far more important in the battle, and saw more bloody fighting than Civil War historians have recognized generally. The more than 500 dead Southerners once buried in its woods and fields would attest to that.

"About two years ago it became possible for us to undertake the purchase of the 118-acre Meals Farm tract which lies to my left below Oak Ridge — land fought over by Federals and Confederates in the First Day's battle, and which appears now much as it did 100 years ago. That purchase is not yet complete. It needs your support. But through the generous cooperation of the owners, we are able today to present to you a portion of it.

"IF WE FAIL"

"The success of our efforts to preserve this battlefield as a shrine of courage and devotion for all Americans depends upon all Americans. The Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association is simply your agent. Our success will be your success in preserving for your children and your children's children a field made sacred by the blood of Americans, North and South, who were willing to die for principles they believed in.

"If we fail, the shame will not be ours, but America's. But we do not believe that we shall fail. We believe that a country which forgets its past is a country in danger of having no future. We believe that, regardless of how much of this land we save for the nation, our association's greatest contribution has been to arouse Americans to a more sensitive awareness of our national heritage in Gettysburg, and to re-awaken the idealism which has made us what we are.

"And now, as a practical demonstration of that idealism, and in the earnest hope that we may soon be enabled to transfer the whole of the historic Meals farm to its rightful owners, the people of the United States of America, we present this deed."

LAUDS TWO GROUPS

Assistant Secretary of the Interior Carver omitted most of his prepared speech of acceptance in behalf of his department but said:

"The President has now called for a new dedication to the equality under law which Lincoln defined as the purpose behind a bloody struggle a century ago. It is time for the Congress to respond—to give positive expression to the ideals for which men fought in the past. National honor, not the threat of civil strife, must be the motivating force by which all our citizens are accorded, ungrudgingly, the equal opportunity for which our system stands.

"I am honored by the privilege of accepting the public-spirited donation of key tracts of land which will help round out this National Historical Park. I commend the two organizations which are responsible for making this event possible. They represent the finest aspects of the spirit that motivates preservation of our national heritage. . . . In the finest traditions of the conservation movement, its members have excited the concern of Americans everywhere to protect these battlefields for public use and inspiration.

"To these organizations and to the many private donors of large and small amounts, I extend the sincere thanks of the American public. On behalf of President Kennedy and Secretary Udall, I accept these lands and pledge to the donors that they will be conserved and dedicated solely to the purposes for which they have been tendered."

The presentation for the Loyal Legion was made by William Buchanan Gold Jr., its Pennsylvania commander.

Immediately after the land presentation, Brooke M. Lessig, president of the War Library and Museum presented a $5,000 literary award to LeRoy H. Fischer, professor of history at the Oklahoma State University, for his book-length manuscript relating to the Civil War period and events leading up to it. Prof. Fischer was present to accept the prize and responded briefly.

The Rev. Fr. Joseph Kealy, rector of the St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church here, read these passages from the Book of Wisdom: Chapter 3, verses 1-9 and Chapter 5, verses 15 to 20.

The Soldiers' Chorus sang "Bless This House," there was the torch lighting ceremony in which Boy and Girl Scouts participated with Gov. Scranton, the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Donald R. Heiges, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, and the band played the national anthem.

Richard Paul Mummert, 34, New Oxford R. 1, was arrested Saturday by Sheriff Dawson Miller on a court process and placed in the county jail.

Freedom's Business Is Never Done, Gov. Scranton Says In Address Opening Centennial

The paradox of the Civil War is that it was fought with both sides invoking those same principles.

The North held that freedom would be destroyed if weakened by sectionalism and rebellion. The South held that it would be equally destroyed if an American lost the right to desert a government in which he no longer believed.

TRAGIC INTERLUDE

"It is safe to assert," said Abraham Lincoln, "that no government proper ever had a provision in its organic law for its own termination."

And, Jefferson Davis told the first Confederate Congress, "All we ask is to be let alone."

Thus a nation divided itself. The Civil War was fought because this nation's need to understand itself far outstripped the time and tools it had to reach that understanding.

The ancient struggle for human rights passed into a tragic interlude. An interlude in which half a nation could look upon the gentle Mr. Lincoln as a tyrant. An interlude in which half a nation could look upon the gallant General Lee as a traitor.

Shouting the same slogans, fighting for the same broad principles, the American nation went to war with itself.

PERPETUAL TENSION

Such a war could not help but underscore one of the great truths about our system of self-government.

Democratic society has within it a perpetual tension, a never-ending push and pull as it strives to work the will of the majority without trampling the rights of the minority.

We treasure the human soul, but we recognize, too, the material needs of the human body. We know that life without liberty is not really life at all. But, we also know that political freedom without economic freedom is not really freedom at all.

Unlike the other system which today competes across the world for the minds of men, we do not believe that man must give up his liberties to fill his belly.

FREEDOM'S BUSINESS

But most of all, we know that freedom's business is never done. In the days ahead, our nation will be sorely pressed to put to use the lessons it has learned at great expense.

There is the continuing task of molding a government strong enough to fulfill its purpose, but not so strong and centralized that it violates its own reason for existence.

There is the task of regulating our business system sufficiently to guarantee the opportunity of its fruits to all, but not so harshly that we destroy the very system that lays the golden eggs.

There is the task of joining other free men in alliances of strength to protect our freedoms, but of avoiding the nuclear destruction of the world in the process.

And there is the task of driving prejudice out of the human heart at least as rapidly as we are learning to drive men into outer space.

DRIVE OUT PREJUDICE

One hundred years after Gettysburg, America still has not completely solved the problems of self-government. But those who fell on this battlefield have not died in vain because our nation today is great enough to keep trying.

Despite our sectional differences, the Union stands firm and strong. The South grows with America, as does the North. And, the West has joined them.

"The new birth of freedom," of which Lincoln spoke, has not been brought forth painlessly. It was weaned on the persecutions of reconstruction, and then lay asleep while the south revived itself and the north plunged into building its industrial machine.

U.S. MATURED QUICKLY

Now, the "new freedom" begins to move again, this time into stormy adolescence. In the South, in the North, in the West—in every section of the nation men are called upon to look into their own hearts.

Written there, each of us can find the timeless truth: "Accustomed to trample on the rights of others, you have lost the genius of your own independence and become the fit subjects of the first cunning tyrant who rises among you."

As the new freedom tumbles into adolescence, it finds itself in a nation that has matured in most things more quickly than any in history.

None has grown swifter to power. None has experienced greater progress. None has been thrust so rapidly into awesome responsibility.

PALE SUBSTITUTE

And yet, the new freedom collides with the great enigma of the American experiment. History one day will explain this enigma, but we cannot afford to wait for history. We must realize now that, for a nation that in many ways moves too fast, in the matter of raising the new freedom to full maturity we have moved too slowly.

Most of all we must realize that freedom of the lawbooks—if that is all it is—is a pale substitute for the real thing. Real freedom is only to be found in the human heart. It is only there that one man can extend it to another.

Looking over the vast battlefield that surrounds us, recalling all its memorable moments—Little Round Top, Devil's Den, the Peach Orchard, the Wheat Field, Culp's Hill, Pickett's Charge—let us resolve never to be torn in two again.

This is not a sectional problem, it is a national problem. It ill behooves any American to point the finger at any other. Rather, we must reach together for the full promise of our common heritage.

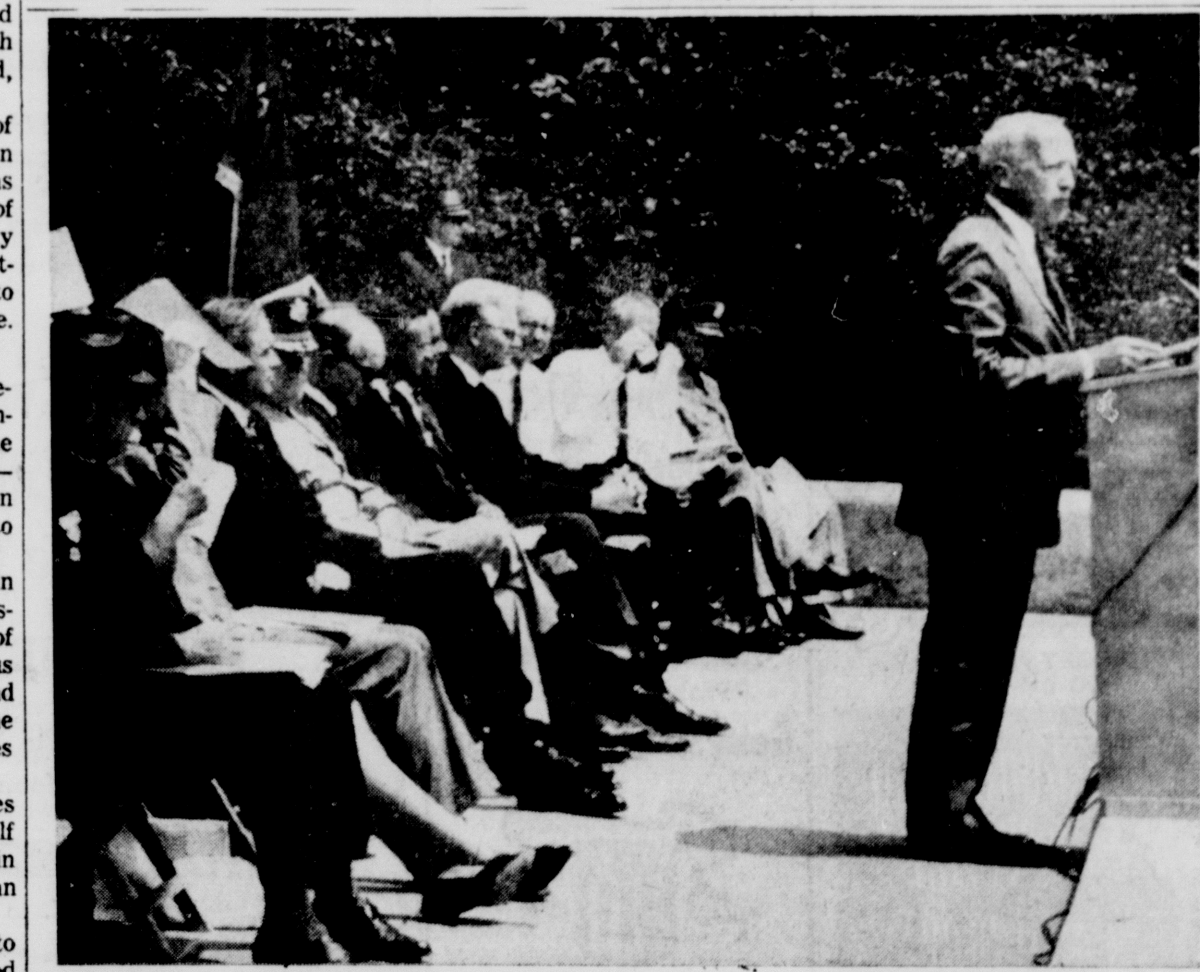

Let us seek the future in unity, not division; in peace, not violence.

of all Americans a full century after the war which was fought to save America's soul." He added, "The men of the Blue and Gray were here because other men failed in justice and in charity. Some Americans suffered a failure of moral vision and sought to perpetuate a system which excluded one-eighth of the people of this country from the promise of the Declaration of Independence.

"If we are to lament the failures of Americans a century ago, how much greater the ensuing failure . . . at this hour of history. Would that the strife which racks our land today not be necessary . . . yet who dares deny that it is justified, that it is necessary, that its purpose is fundamentally the ultimate liquidation of the cause of the Civil War.

LIBERTY FOR ALL

"The Civil War was fought for liberty and justice for all, but those freed from the yoke of slavery, it was said, were not ready to claim their share of the American promise. And for 100 years, they have been told by too many of their fellow Americans that it is not yet time for them to advance a claim to the civil rights which are theirs as citizens and to the equal opportunity which should be theirs as human beings.

"We are witnessing an historic movement of the Negro in America, the emergence of their spirit of self-reliance and a determination to win for themselves the long postponed fullness of freedom and justice . . . the freedom due our fellow citizens is not the gift of men, but the gift of the Creator. This equality is unalienable, a truth held . . . by those who wrote the Declaration of Independence . . . and those who would attempt to withhold the rights of equality, by action or by the consent of silence, would deny America's ancient pledge and would weaken the strength of her promise to the world.

"We have not only our national soul to save again. . . . The world watches, as it did not in the past—because we proclaimed slavery, it was said, were not the best promise for all mankind. Mankind, then, is measuring our achievements against our promise of freedom and justice.

"We can no longer carry the burden of the failure to fulfill that promise. And delay in this fulfillment is a clear and present danger to the nation which we must avert together in unity and understanding.

"Only then can the warriors of Gettysburg sleep in the peace of a land where freedom and equality are the possession of all."

Following his address Governor Hughes and Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, chief of staff of the N. J. Defense Dept., laid a wreath at the monument. Wreaths were laid Monday at all 12 N.J. regimental markers on the Battlefield.

A precision drill team, The Cavaliers, Trenton, presented a special 10-minute performance in the field below the monument plateau.

SKIN ROOKIE PASSED BONUS IN BASEBALL

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Richter says all that standing around during long baseball games bores him. This was one reason the Wisconsin All-American end gave for signing to play professional football instead of baseball.

Richter, No. 1 Washington draft choice, signed a contract with the National Football League Redskins last month after the Wisconsin baseball schedule was concluded. He signed for what is said to be the highest salary a Redskin rookie ever received, an estimated $21,000.

"I got tired of baseball in those last games before the season ended," he said at a news conference Monday. "Some of those games lasted three or four hours. When you go out to play football, you play for an hour and its over—none of this extra inning business."

NINE LETTERS

Richter, who won nine letters in three sports during his college career, turned down several baseball offers to sign with the Redskins.

"I think you have more time to get started on your off-season career with football," explained Richter. He has another semester of college to complete before receiving a degree as a landscape architect.

He said he planned to try to get a job with a local firm as soon as he graduates.

His other objections to baseball include the amount of travel and the 162-game schedule played in the major leagues.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three contractors doing business with the city have hired Negro journeyman plumbers in accordance with an agreement reached last Friday, according to the city's Human Relations Commission. Butin I. Gordin, acting director of the commission, said Monday a meeting is planned later this week to work out a long-range policy on the hiring.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Winkens, 50, of Philadelphia was killed Monday when his pickup truck hit a concrete column supporting the Schuylkill Expressway.

SENATE WILL VOTE TODAY ON SCHOOL BILL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The long-delayed showdown vote comes up today in the Senate on the Scranton administration's watered down compulsory school district reorganization bill.

Senate Democrats faced the almost futile task of attempting to salvage at least part of their 1961 reorganization bill and put muscle back in the Scranton measure.

But Republicans authorized more loopholes Monday night and wrote into the bill a repealer of the 1961 law.

Republican Floor Leader James S. Berger of Potter County, who was forced to put off a showdown vote last week after failing to come up with enough votes in a GOP caucus, said he is prepared to listen to hours of Democratic debate, but insisted the oratory would change nothing.

SEES PASSAGE

"We have the votes now and the bill will be passed in its present form," Berger said.

The GOP lawmaker said the three Republican holdouts were appeased by amendments to repeal the 1961 act and exempt districts that can prove they are capable of offering a comprehensive program of education.

The amendments were adopted 27-23 on straight party-line votes. Included in last week's holdouts were Sens. Henry J. Probert, Montgomery County; Clarence D. Bell, Delaware County, and John H. Ware, Chester County.

Minority Leader Charles R. Weiner immediately charged the majority with attempting to set up "little islands (of quality) in the sea of education."

Weiner also maintained that during this campaign, Scranton repeated time and again that he was "unalterably" opposed to outright repeal of the 1961 act, but favored only changes.

"You heard the governor's message on education to a joint session when he said nothing was more important than the education of our children," the Philadelphia Democrat declared. "The children of Pennsylvania are entitled to more than this sham you are offering."

DEATH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Camille Chauteamps, 78, former premier of France, vice premier at the time of the French surrender to Nazi Germany in World War II and convicted Vichy collaborator, died Monday. Chauteamps, who had lived in Washington since 1940, had been ill a year with a generalized hardening of the arteries.

MILFORD, N.J. (AP) — Hugh Kendall Boice, 79, who was credited with introducing the sales potential of radio to advertisers, died Monday. Boice, during his career with several advertising agencies and the radio station of the New York Times, had charge of many major programs in the 1920s and 1930s. He was born in Chicago.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Judge John W. McIlvaine of the U.S. District Court for Western Pennsylvania, died Monday, apparently of a heart attack. McIlvaine, 56, was appointed in 1955 by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He was born in Washington, Pa.

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Simon, 60, vice president and advertising manager of the trade paper Radio and Television Daily, died Monday. Simon, who had been with the newspaper 14 years, was president of the Broadcasters Foundation donor of the Golden Mike awards which he founded in 1961.

Out Of The Past

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The weather of Thursday and Friday was rainy and cold and the omens were unpropitious for the veterans, but Friday evening gave some evidences of clearer skies which were realized before Saturday was far advanced. The crowds commenced to stream through our streets on Friday evening and throughout the night and all of Saturday, Sunday and Monday were constantly augmented by increasing numbers. The Jersey National Guard arrived first and was followed by the veterans, who went into camp in the Wheat Field — more than 1,600 persons being there provided for. Saturday morning brought Governor Green and staff, the State Commission, Gen. Sewell, and many other officials of New Jersey. The Wisconsin delegation, 300 strong, arrived during Friday night. The formal dedicatory exercises opened on Saturday morning with Wisconsin's dedications in Reynolds Grove, near the place where the gallant Reynolds was killed. Capt. L. E. Pond, who served gallantly upon this field and who is President of the Wisconsin Commission presided and delivered an eloquent address transferring the monuments to the State. In the absence of Governor Rusk who was detained by illness, they were received by State Treasurer Harshaw, a one-armed veteran. Senator Spooner, whose reputation as an orator is national, delivered a speech ringing and resonant with the truest patriotism. His oration was enthusiastically applauded during its delivery and at its close. The 134th New York Regiment brought over 300 survivors who were accompanied by the Mayor and Common Council of Schenectady. Their monument was dedicated on Sunday. The 147th New York dedicated their monument at the Railroad cut and Reynolds Ave. at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Greene's Brigade held an interesting reunion Monday morning at 11 o'clock on Culp's Hill. The joint monument of the 78th and 102d New York regiments was dedicated at 10 o'clock Monday morning, as was the monument of Winslow's celebrated battery. Sickles' Excelsior Brigade laid the corner-stone of their monument Monday morning on the avenue through the Trostle farm. The 86th New York dedicated its monument Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the 145th New York dedicated theirs. The 83rd New York have the most imposing monument on the field, beautifully located on Oak Ridge near the Mummasburg Road. Their dedicatory exercises took place Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Irish Brigade dedicated their massive and handsome monument in the Wheat Field woods Monday morning. The 97th New York dedicated on Sunday, as did the 29th New York, the 34th New York and the 76th New York. The 68th Pennsylvania dedicated their second monument Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Peach Orchard.

East Cemetery Hill is alive with Grand Army men, and Camp "A Wilson Norris" is the longest the Department has ever held. Sunday morning at 10:30 the usual religious services were held from the rostrum in the National Cemetery where Chaplain Sayre preached the sermon. Many other monuments are being dedicated and reunions held.

There are so many great and distinguished names on our hotel registers that we could fill a column with the mention of persons whose memory will survive as long as the war for Union and Liberty is remembered. We give a few: Gens. Sickles, Slocum, Augur, Hunt, Crawford, Robinson, Graham, Ward, Carr, Greene, Fairchild, Colgrove, Longstreet and Gordon, Goss, Smyth, Beaver, Green, Ormsby and Hartman; Gen. PHILOSOPHY

I know that we all worry too much. We place false values upon those things of life which are not essential. We burn beauty by the roadside. We try to "keep up with the Joneses." And we wonder why we are not happy.

Well, I think it is because so few of us have a philosophy of life. Certainly the man who suddenly lost his fortune and killed himself lacked a philosophy of life.

People with a sane philosophy carry through and go on. I once came across this little group of rhymed lines:

"There isn't much to life but this—
A baby's smile, a woman's kiss,
A book, a pipe, a fire, a friend;
And just a little cash to spend!"

Many a millionaire has lived a long life and yet been unable to gather together as much wealth as is suggested in that simple verse.

I recall standing upon the slope of a friend's small acreage in the Connecticut countryside. He had purchased an old farm house and remodelled it. He had added to his garage a closed sun parlor — and a game room above. He had planted flowers and trees and he boasted about the old "oaken bucket" that hung in the well off the kitchen. He said he had solved life and that the only thing that irked him was the mad scramble for gain in the city.

There is always liable to be another day, so why worry? If that day never dawns, there is no need to worry anyway. Always expect the best.

Learn to "never mind." Bad things happen — but not the worst that could happen! There is always a sunny day on the way.

Just Folks

PETTY FAILURES

These have spoiled the world for me,
Selfishness and spite and hate,
False conceptions of the great,
Shames which never ought to be,
Wrongs I never meant to do,
All have marred by journey through.

In the crisis I have stood
Strong enough to meet the test,
Sorely tried I've done my best,
Seldom to life what strength I could,
But when trifling cares assailed,
Then so often I have failed.

Little things have spoiled my fame,
Needless angry words I've said;
Fiery moments, quickly sped,
Leaving livid welts of shame;
These my record had not marred
Had I constantly kept guard.

'Tis in small things greatness shows
He is biggest who can bear
Trifling tests of fretful care
And not rage at petty blows.
Biggest he, when small things dig,
Who remembers to be big.

retary of the Army of the Potomac; Maj. Geo. W. Cooney, of the New York Commission; Capt. Noonan of the "Excelsior" Brigade. Few men know more about this great battle and none take more interest in the preservation and proper indication of them than Col. John M. Vanderslice. He knows where every regiment fought and what they did.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
Reunions On Battlefield: Reunions by the score are in progress on the battlefield today and all over the broad expanse of the three days' battle may be seen little groups of men holding their ceremonies and exercises in memory of their deeds of valor fifty years ago. While twenty reunions were in progress in the big tent on the Emmitsburg Road, an equal number were being held at regimental monuments, at the statues of the commanding officers and other points of interest on the battlefield. Reunions of another sort could also be seen where the old soldier by twos and threes found each other and in camp or on the field they spent hours talking over the affairs of fifty years ago.

Veterans Here But Few Others:

So far as Gettysburg residents are concerned the anniversary might be termed a complete success. The veterans are here by the tens of thousands and the number of old soldiers in camp is fully up to the estimates originally made, but the crowd of other visitors in town is comparatively very small. Apparently discouraged and frightened by the stories which gained circulation through the public press of the country, that the town would not be able to feed the enormous crowds, that the railroads would have trouble bringing them here and getting them home after the anniversary, that there might be a food shortage and other adverse reports, many thousands have been deterred from coming here and financial losses are reported on all sides. The automobile business has fallen far below expectations and the garages report room for many more cars than have been brought in for storage. As a result the financial end of the proposition, aside from the hotels, some boarding houses and various places of business, is far from reaching expectations.

Exercises In The Great Tent:

The first of the general exercises in the big tent occurred Tuesday afternoon when there were addresses by Governor Tener, Secretary of War Garrison and the commanders-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Wednesday was "Military Day" with Col. Andrew Cowan of Louisville, presiding. Major General John R. Brooks of Pennsylvania was the Northern orator of the day and Sergeant John C. Scarborough of North Carolina, the silver-tongued defender of the South. To Barry Bulkley, Washington, D. C., was given the honor of reading Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech. Thursday was Governor's Day in the big tent and it was a big success. Vice President Marshall was the first speaker, followed by Speaker Clark; Gov. McCreary of Kentucky; Governor Suiter of New York; Gov. Mann of Virginia; Gov. Baldwin of Connecticut; Gov. Hanna of North Dakota; Gov. Miller of Delaware; Gov. Haines of Maine; Gov. Ralston of Indiana; Gov. Cox of Ohio and Gov. Eberhardt of Minnesota. After the scheduled exercises in the big tent, ending at 4 p.m. "New York Day" was on the program. Twelve thousand veterans left for their homes Wednesday, and Thursday about an equal number started. President Woodrow Wilson arrived in Gettysburg Friday morning at eleven o'clock and was given a great ovation as he passed through the streets of town to the big camp of veterans. When he

Fireman Dies After Battling Blaze

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dense smoke from a chemical-fed fire led to the death of a fireman and reached the big tent a salute of twenty-one guns was given him. The exercises in front of the tent followed and Mr. Wilson left at twelve o'clock for Philadelphia. As he departed from camp Battery D fired a salute to the Union of forty-eight guns, one for each state.

Gettysburg May Well Be Proud:

Gettysburg has done itself proud. Since the opening rush started on Thursday of last week Gettysburg has had at one time or another about 80,000 visitors and not one word of complaint was heard at any time over ill treatment by Gettysburg people, but on the contrary there was always some one ready to praise the town and its people. The celebration in itself was an absolute and unqualified success.

Stephen Safar Jr., 48, died in Mercy Hospital about four hours after the fire. An autopsy revealed he died from a blood clot in a heart artery. Smoke inhalation was a contributing factor, the coroner's office said.

Deputy Fire Chief William Martin estimated damages to the Robert Fulton Co. building at $35,000. Cause of the blaze in the two-

PODRES WINS OVER BRAVES ON 5-HITTER

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Podres didn't take many bows, it's dangerous.

But there's no doubt the shrewd left-hander with the chronic back trouble was entitled to take just a little dip from the waist Monday night after his five-hit pitching carried Los Angeles to a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee and to within one-half game of the National League lead.

Plagued by back trouble since the start of his professional career, Podres has been both brilliant and baffling for the Dodgers since he joined the club in 1953. For the last three weeks, he had again been a problem, unable to win.

FANS 12 MEN

Then, against the Braves, the 31-year-old hurler completed another amazing flip-flop, turning in one of his strongest performances of the season. He struck out 12 and walked only two while recording his sixth complete game for a 5-6 record.

The decisive run came home on Wally Moon's pinch-hit double in the ninth inning off Braves starter Bob Sadowski, who wound up with a four-hitter and is 0-2 since he came to Milwaukee in the trade that sent Lew Burdette to St. Louis.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, lost to Houston 4-3 in 11 innings on Rusty Staub's key single. It was the Colts sixth victory in their last seven extra-inning games, all won by relief specialist Hal Woodeschick.

REDS WHIP GIANTS

In other games, fourth-place Cincinnati showed its home run punch in edging third-place San Francisco 4-3 and Pittsburgh and Philadelphia split. The Pirates won the opener 2-1 before the Phillies took the nightcap 8-1. New York's Mets and the Chicago Cubs were idle.

The Dodgers moved ahead 1-0 on Frank Howard's 12th homer in the second inning but Gene Oliver, who also came to the Braves in the Burdette trade, tied the score with a homer off Podres in the fourth. It stayed that way until the ninth when Maury Wills singled, stole second and eventually came around on Moon's hit following an intentional walk to Jim Gilliam. Sadowski had retired 14 men in a row when Wills hit one up the middle.

Woodeschick, now 8-3, allowed the Cardinals to tie the score in the ninth on a pinch single by Charlie James, a ground out and Bill White's single, but then checked the league-leaders until the Colts struck against Ron Taylor, 4-3. Ernie Fazio, like Staub a rookie, beat out an infield hit, moved to second on a sacrifice, took third on a wild pitch and trotted home on Staub's single. It was Houston's second straight victory over St. Louis after seven consecutive losses.

Littlestown Little League

Coming up with a run in the bottom of the sixth inning, the Phils carried off a thrilling, well-played 2-1 decision over the Cardinals Monday evening.

The Cardinals scored in the first frame when Dick Klunk singled and later came around to score the lone run. The Phils tied the game in the second on Zepp's tally and clinched the decision on Everhart's score.

Dave Klunk went the distance on the hill for the losers while DeGroot started for the Phils with Strevig coming in in the third and Everhart in the fifth.

The Bendersville Orioles remained undefeated in their first place position, but only after scoring a single run in the sixth inning against a tough and determined Arendtsville White Sox team as the league leaders captured a 1-0 decision Monday evening on the loser's diamond.

After battling for five scoreless innings, the Orioles tallied the game's lone run in the sixth when T. Black singled, stole second and romped home on Delmar Crum's single. Wayne Crum went the distance on the mound for the winners as he struck out 16 batters and allowed two scattered hits. The two safeties came off the bats of Tony Bushey and Steve James.

The New Oxford Dodgers kept a strong hold on second place by outlasting the York Springs Giants 9-6 on the loser's field. York Springs scored all six of its runs in the first four frames and led 6-3 at that point. In the fifth inning the Dodgers added a pair of tallies and then put the game on ice with three more runs in the top of the sixth. A total of eight errors were committed during the game, five by the Giants.

The Idaville Senators took an early lead and rolled to an 8-6 win over the Biglerville Red Legs at Biglerville. The Senators had to turn in some excellent clutch fielding in the late moments of the game as they held off a Red Leg uprising which produced three runs in the seventh.

GETTYSBURG LITTLE LEAGUE

Hanging onto an early lead, the Rotary edged the Glenn L. Bream team 7-6 Monday evening in a game that had a thrilling ending and one that was played before one of the largest crowds of the year.

Trailing by a 7-3 count going into the last half of the sixth inning, the Breammen promptly scored three runs and had the winning runs on second and third when Rotary Coach George Hale brought in fireballer Ron Kuykendall to replace Terry Bowling. Kuykendall struck out the first man he faced. He then walked Bob Green who had a three-run triple earlier in the game. With two outs and the bases loaded, the little hurler then ended the contest by sending slugger "King" Cole down swinging.

Cole turned in a fine pitching job for the Breammen but is charged with the loss. Bowling receives the win, thanks to Kuykendall. The Bream team pounded out 13 hits compared to the Rotary's seven. Coston and Strickland of the Breammen topped all hitters with a trio of safeties each.

YANKEES WIN ON WILLIAMS' RELIEF WORK

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Stan Williams, who quickly went from featured performer to bit player in the New York Yankees' cast of characters this season, is back in the spotlight—taking bows.

The huge right-hander was the star of the show Monday night as the Yanks took another forward step in their drive for the American League pennant, almost singlehandedly wrecking the Boston Red Sox in a 7-5 Bomber victory.

Williams came on in relief in the fifth inning, stifled a big threat, blasted a decisive triple in the bottom of the inning and turned the Red Sox back the rest of the way with a superb job of pitching.

AUSPICIOUS DEBUT

It was the first standout performance in some time by Williams, who was a front-line starter for the Yanks as the season opened, after being acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers for first baseman Bill Skowron.

He made an auspicious debut for the Yanks, beating Baltimore 5-1 with a five-hitter in the first week of the campaign, but as the season progressed, Williams' pitching slipped, and eventually he became a supernumerary in the bullpen.

He had last won on May 4 and had last appeared in a winning game on May 11—and carried a 2-3 record.

Williams squared that with a brilliant effort against the Red Sox. By winning, the Yankees made it four in a row over Boston and pushed 2½ games ahead of the runner-up Chicago White Sox.

In the only other AL game in the schedule, the Kansas City Athletics jumped out to a 5-0 lead against Baltimore and wound up with a 6-4 decision over the Orioles.

In the National League, Houston nipped first-place St. Louis 4-3 in 11 innings; the Dodgers climbed to within one-half game of the top, trimming Milwaukee 2-1; Cincinnati downed San Francisco 4-3; and Philadelphia gained a double-header split with Pittsburgh, trouncing the Pirates 8-1 after a 2-1 opening game loss.

Williams came on for Jim Bouton in the fifth with one run in, one out, two on, the score tied at 5-5—and got Dick Williams to hit into a double play. On the pitching side, he allowed only one hit in 4-2/3 innings—a double by Lu Clinton in the ninth. On the hitting side, he smacked a triple in the go-ahead run and then scored himself on Tony Kubek's single.

Kansas City rapped Oriole rookie Dave McNally for four runs in the first three innings, then went ahead 5-0 on Wayne Causey's homer off Ike Delock in the fourth.

BUNGERT HAS PLAN TO BEAT U.S. TENNIS

By GEOFFREY MILLER

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

Wilhelm Bungert, German tennis star and chief upset maker at Wimbledon, kept discreetly silent today about a plan he has hatched to beat America's Chuck McKinley and win a place in the men's final of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

They meet in the semifinals Wednesday.

Bungert, 24, who sensationally knocked out top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia 6-6, 3-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 Monday, told newsmen he has his plans for the match.

"I played against McKinley in the West of England championships at Bristol the other week," Bungert said. "He beat me, but I studied him carefully."

"MOVES FAST"

"I've got some ideas about how to deal with him. Of course, I'm not going to say what they are. I'll just say this—he moves about the court very fast."

McKinley, of San Antonio, Tex., looked in good form in defeating British Davis Cup star Bobby Wilson 6-6, 6-4, 6-2.

"I'm in good shape," McKinley said. "I hope I'll win the tournament."

"The title is wide open now that Emerson is out. Don't ask me how I'll make out against Bungert."

The other semifinal will be between Manuel Santana of Spain and Fred Stolle of Australia.

Santana, seeded No. 2, defeated German left-hander Christian Kuhnke 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Stolle won a battle of big booming services to beat Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., 9-7, 7-5, 6-4.

FAVOR BOUTON TO START ALL STAR BATTLE

By BOB HOOBING

Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Yankee yearling Jim Bouton or crafty Jim Bunning of Detroit will be the likely All-Star game starting pitcher for the American League and "The Monster"—Dick Radatz—rates probable finisher.

President Joe Cronin announced the complete American League squad Tuesday, including New York manager Ralph Houk's seven mound selections for the July 9 classic at Cleveland. Only Bunning and Ken McBride of Los Angeles among the hurlers have seen previous All-Star action.

Jim (Mudcat) Grant of Cleveland, Boston Red Sox rescuer Radatz plus southpaws Steve Barber of Baltimore and Juan Pizarro of Chicago complete the pitching choices.

MANTLE IS OUT

"Hoak hasn't said a word to me about his starting pitcher but it will definitely be a right-hander," Cronin said after glancing at the right-handed-packed National League lineup. Only Cardinal first baseman Bill White and Giants catcher Ed Bailey hit from the left side.

One AL spokesman felt Bouton would get the starting nod off his 10-3 record and 2.45 earned run average. Another leans toward Bunning who has only a 4-9 mark this season but is working on an eight-inning scoreless streak in All-Star play and has a 1.50 ERA for 12 frames.

The eight All-Star players voted into starting berths by their fellow athletes will open the game with the exception of injured New York centerfielder Mickey Mantle. Albie Pearson of Los Angeles is in his place.

Otherwise it's Detroit's Al Kaline and LA's Leon Wagner in the outfield with Minnesota's Earl Battey behind the plate. The infield regulars are Yankee Joe Pepitone at first, old pro Nellie Fox of the White Sox at second, the Twins' Zoilo Versalles at short and Boston's Frank Malzone at third.

Houk followed the second choices of the players except at first base where he picked Norm Siebern of Kansas City instead of Boston's Dick Stuart. He also added a third catcher, Don Lepert of Washington, and outfielders Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota and Tom Tresh of the Yankees.

Player-voted alternates whom Houk picked included outfielders Bob Allison of the Twins and Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox plus catcher Elston Howard of the Yankees. The infielders: 2b Bob Richardson, New York; SS Luis Aparicio and 3b Brooks Robinson, Baltimore.

In other shifts, the Kansas City Athletics bought catcher Charley Lau from Baltimore and optioned outfielder Manny Jimenez to Portland of the PCL. The Orioles had brought up pitcher Herm Starrette and outfielder Fred Valentin from Rochester of the International League over the weekend.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Baseball fans who yearn for a pitching duel and those who prefer a hitting game each got their wish at Monday night's Pittsburgh-Philadelphia doubleheader.

The Pirates won the pitching game, 2-1, as Don Cardwell gave up four hits to best the Phils' Ray Culp. It was Cardwell's fourth victory against nine losses and it was Culp's sixth loss against 10 victories. The Pirates won in the ninth as Bill Virdon singled home the winning run.

The Phils won the hitting festival, 8-1. Three Pirate errors aided the Phils' cause. Philadelphia scored six runs in the fifth inning when it batted around.

The game started like it would be a repeat of the first game, with winner Cal McLish retiring the first 14 batters to face him until Bob Bailey and Johnny Logan slapped singles in the fifth inning.

The Phils had 11 hits in the second game, and the Pirates four. McLish won his seventh against four losses. Earl Francis was the loser. He's now 3-3.

PALMER BEATS LEMA, AARON BY 3 STROKES

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Arnold Palmer, with his fifth tour victory and a bushel basket full of money, heads for England Wednesday in quest of his third straight British Open golf championship.

The 33-year-old Pennsylvania plutocrat carved out a five-birdie 67 Monday to defeat Tony Lema and Tommy Aaron by three strokes in their playoff for the Cleveland Open—a $110,000 fixture.

They had tied at 273, or 11 under par for the 72-hole jaunt over Beechmont Country Club 6,618-yard course.

The victory gave Palmer $22,000, boosted his three-week take to $54,000, ran his 1963 winnings to a record $85,345, and his 10-year total to an unapproached $430,323.

Lema, 29, San Leandro, Calif., pro, and Aaron, 26 from Gainesville, Ga., picked up $8,500 each.

It was the biggest payday for Aaron, who has never won a pro tourney and moved him to eighth in the earnings list with $22,500.

Lema has the Memphis Open title and several high finishes to his credit for a fourth-place $60,963.

The playoff, the last four holes of which were televised nationally, was anti-climactic. Palmer, with three birdies, was three ahead of Lema and four ahead of Aaron at the end of six holes.

With five to play, just before they moved into camera range, Palmer led Tony by five strokes and Tommy by seven.

Aaron, who birdied the last four to get into the playoff, birdied three of the same four to tie Lema.

Russian-Red Chinese Split May Find West Cutting Capers, Increase Trouble

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — A shattering Russian-Red Chinese split, something the most cunning Western statesmen could not have engineered, seems certain now, perhaps this week.

If this doesn't drive Russia closer to the West, at least it will force her to divert more of her thinking and resources to coping with Red China in Asia and elsewhere.

This will be the best break for the allies since the cold war began. But it doesn't mean world peace is any closer or that the Atlantic partners will have sense enough to make the most of the crack in the enemy camp.

MAY CUT CAPERS

On the contrary, they may start cutting capers of their own until they, too, make a mess of themselves.

They stood together solidly enough when they felt intense pressure and danger from Russia. When Premier Khrushchev seemed to relax, they began to relax and to assert their ancient nationalism, which was exactly the basic cause of the Russian-Chinese split.

French President de Gaulle buffeted both the United States and Britain in what seems to be his dream of a French grandeur which belonged in another century. It is his way of trying to establish new French leadership in Europe.

BRITAIN BARRED

He barred Britain from the European Common Market, challenged America's loyalty to its allies if they were attacked, and, using this for an excuse, is making his own nuclear weapons over American protests.

This is probably only the beginning of the allies' problems with one another. But if all these problems melted tomorrow, the Russian-Red Chinese split still wouldn't bring world peace closer.

Last week Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations guessed the Chinese Communists would explode their first atomic bomb this year or next. They have been working on it for years with little or no help from Russia.

SITUATION WORSENS

Just as De Gaulle is unwilling to let the United States have a monopoly on nuclear weapons in the West, the Red Chinese are unwilling to let Russia have a monopoly in the East.

Differences between the two Communist giants, growing worse by the year, recently became so bad that the meeting they arranged for next Friday in Moscow to discuss them may wind up in an explosion.

Meanwhile, the United States and Britain had arranged to meet in the same place with the Russians July 15 to discuss a nuclear test ban. There's not much optimism about the outcome of that, either.

TRIPLE DISTRUSTS

A triple distrust — with the United States, Russia and Red China all distrusting one another — is hardly a happy foundation for a test ban agreement between the United States and Russia, even if one could be reached.

There would still be the Red Chinese to think about.

Would they agree not to test, just because the United States and Russia had agreed not to? Hardly.

Would the United States and Russia, if they could reach agreement, keep it if they saw the Red Chinese testing? It isn't likely.

The Red Chinese complaint that the Russians aren't aggressive enough is probably a thin excuse for deeper discontents: their rival nationalisms, their eventual conflict over living space in Asia, and Russia's skimpy help to the Red Chinese before and after they took power.

All in all, the Russian-Red Chinese split could be a turning point in history for the West, something to cheer about, but the Western partners will probably find ways to offset this by causing themselves trouble if the Communists don't.

STEEL OUTPUT MAY MEASURE U.S. ECONOMY

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Just how low steel output dips this month and next may be the measure of the summer's economy.

It can spell the difference between slowdown and slump in industrial output. And it can reveal how strong, or how shaky, is the business revival that pepped up the final months of spring.

Earliest reports show a sharp dropping off in new orders for steel following the recent labor pact and the end of any strike threat. But the reports are tempered surprisingly enough with the word that the dip in demand is considerably less than expected.

MORE HOPEFUL

Even more hopeful is the indication that steel use is continuing at a good clip. The customers may be dipping heavily into inventories already built up, but they are using them up faster than many hoped just a short time back.

And because of this, perhaps, some of the major buyers of steel have been tapering off their orders rather than halting them altogether.

If the heavy consumption of steel continues among major users—the auto makers, construction industry, appliance makers and the like—the economy may really have caught its second wind for a sizable upward climb, rather than just taking a false spurt before declining into a slump as a few pessimists still fear.

BOUND TO BE LOW

The July figures on steel are bound to be low by recent standards—the question is how low.

Compared with output equal to 85 per cent of unofficial capacity as of a month ago, tonnage is expected to slip to 60 per cent. Some of this would have happened without any labor pact. Spreading vacation periods among steel-using industries always cut shipments in July and August.

If steel consumption holds up well after the vacation shutdowns are over, a slow climb back in mill output can still give the industry the 105-million-ton production it hopes for all of 1963. About 60 million of this was produced in the first six months. Admittedly a fair part of the tonnage was due to build up of stocks while steel labor and management were still dickering over terms of a union agreement.

Reporter On Scene Here Relates Battle Scenes As They Might Have Looked

EDITORS NOTE — Among the hills south of Gettysburg a decisive and bloody battle was shaping 100 years ago today. Here is how it might have been reported by a correspondent at the scene.

By TOM HENSHAW

GETTYSBURG (AP) — Gen. Robert E. Lee's Confederate army scored minor gains today but the chief Union defensive lines held in heavy, bloody fighting among the hills south of Gettysburg.

Maj. Gen. George G. Meade, commander of the Union Army of the Potomac, said late tonight after a staff conference that his battered forces plan to "stay and fight it out" on the same field tomorrow.

It is apparent that the action around this small (2,400 population) south central Pennsylvania town is becoming one of the major battles in the War Between the States.

LITTLE ROUND TOP

Fighting today centered about Little Round Top, a hill on the left flank of the Union army, and in a salient jutting out from the federal left. The Confederates captured the salient, the Union kept the hill.

For the second day, losses were high. The Union 3rd Corps, commanded by Maj. Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, 37, a Democratic former congressman from New York, was badly damaged. Sickles was wounded. Reports said he may lose a leg.

The Confederate attack came late, about 4 p.m., thanks largely to a tactical disagreement between Lee and his chief lieutenant, Lt. Gen. James Longstreet, commanding the Confederate right wing.

LONGSTREET IDEA

Instead of attacking, Longstreet explained, he wanted to move around the Union army and fight defensively on a more advantageous field near the federal capital of Washington, only 65 miles away.

The main assault fell upon the Union salient, pushed forward without Meade's permission by Gen. Sickles. Meade had directed Sickles to remain in the Union defensive line atop Cemetery Ridge. "This brought the left of the line into the low ground," explained Col. Thomas Rafferty of New York, one of Sickles' regimental commanders. "And into a position which enabled the rebels to attack us with every advantage in their favor."

"Sickles was satisfied his position was untenable should he be attacked, and he had every assurance that he would be, and in overwhelming numbers. At about 2 p.m., our line was advanced to the new position. We had simply advanced to the front."

Sickles' corps was overwhelmed while the rest of the Union army watched from Cemetery Ridge.

Meanwhile Longstreet saw that Little Round Top, which dominates the Union left, had been ignored by both sides. He dispatched the 15th Alabama under Col. William C. Oates to occupy it.

GEN. WARREN

About the same time, Maj. Gen. Gouverneur K. Warren, Meade's chief engineer, noticed the omission from the federal side.

"I rode down the hill," he said, "and fortunately met my old brigade. I took the responsibility to detach the first regiment I struck, whose colonel, on hearing my few words of explanation about the position, moved at once to the hilltop."

The Union regiment, the 20th Maine under Col. Joshua L. Chamberlain, reached the top of the hill about 10 minutes before the Confederates. The Alabamians charged. The Maine line bent, then countercharged.

FEARFUL SHOCK

"We struck the rebels with a fearful shock," said Theodore Gerish of the 20th Maine. "They recoiled, staggered, broke and ran, and like avenging demons our men pursued."

"The rebels rushed toward a stone wall but, to their surprise and ours, two scores of rifle barrels gleamed over the rocks, and a murderous volley was poured in upon them at close quarters."

"This unlooked-for reinforcement were our skirmishers, who we supposed had all been captured."

About 6 p.m. on the opposite end of the Union line, an attack by the Confederate corps of Lt. Gen. Richard S. Ewell was hurled back from Cemetery Hill and peace descended on the battlefield.

NEW YORK (AP)—You can tell how old a man is by the contents of his pockets.

A birth certificate or a passport only gives his chronological age. But what he carries in his pockets is a better index to his real age—how old he feels.

If you turn his pockets inside out, you can also tell pretty well what his problems are, and the kind of hopes, fears and dreams he has. You can tell a lot about his personality.

This index gets more accurate as a man gets older. At the age of 10 months, it isn't worth a hoot—as a fellow then is still wearing those wraparound loin clothes common to both sexes.

But by the time he's 10, our little man's pockets have become a calendar of his being. They are stuffed with the trinkets and treasures of what is known as "the crow age" of childhood.

At 20 all of this wonderful baggage of boyhood is gone.

His pockets now contain such items as a handkerchief with his initials on it, some cribbed notes for use in his next exam, a photo of his best girl, a little book listing the names and addresses of all the other girls who ever said hello to him, a pipe and tobacco pouch, the keys to his jalopy, 35 cents in hard cash, and a letter from his father saying if he wants more money he'll either have to earn it—or get better marks in college.

At 35 his pockets show another great change.

Now they hold an address book, noting his business contacts, photos of his mate and their cubs, a half-empty cigarette pack, a note from the bank saying a payment is overdue on his last loan, a plastic five-year calendar presented to him by an insurance agent, a ballpoint pen, and $1.35 in change doled out to him that morning by his wife for lunch money.

At 50 our man's pockets are stuffed as they haven't been since he was 10. But now what do we

Scranton Agrees To Special Session

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton told his legislative leaders Monday he would not oppose a special session to reapportion the General Assembly providing the administration's program was passed by July 31.

There has been talk in the legislative halls, particularly in the Senate, of growing sentiment among the assemblymen to hold a special session in October to realign the state's legislative districts.

Sen. Majority Leader James S. Berger said Scranton is agreeable to the special session if the administration's "Must" bills are cleared by July 31—the assembly's tentative date for sine die (without further business) adjournment.

We find two or three pens, a pad on which to write memos to himself, photos of his grandchildren, five credit cards, two dozen cards of business acquaintances, a letter from an old friend asking for a loan, a packet of paper hankies, enough pills, pellets and capsules to stock a drug store, a travel ad about Tahiti, three insurance company folders on how to retire early, and two well-worn $10 bills he has kept for emergencies since he was 45.

At 70 our man's pockets bulge no more. They contain a piece of string he thriftily picked up while strolling, and the wallet the boys at the office gave him when he retired at 65. The wallet holds an old good luck dollar, a faded letter from the boss saying what a good job he did for the firm for 40 years, and a card saying whom to notify in case some day he doesn't make it back home from the park bench where he sits and watches the world go by.

His pockets have come full circle.

NEGROES SET JOB DEADLINE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four hundred negro ministers Sunday called off a three-week selective patronage boycott of Food Fair supermarket stores in the Philadelphia area.

The Rev. Leon Sullivan, pastor of the Zion Baptist Church, said the ministers had requested placement of 56 Negroes in sensitive positions by new hiring or upgrading. He said the demands were more than fully met.

The supermarket, according to Rev. Mr. Sullivan, employed 42 new Negroes, and upgraded 29.

TESTS FOR SEMINARIANS

CHICAGO (AP) — The ministry commission of the American Baptist Convention has announced the launching of a new psychological testing program for students before they enter a seminary.

NEW YORK (AP) — Philanthropic giving in 1962 is estimated at about $9 billion most of it to religious causes, says the American Association of Fund Raising Councils Inc.

Battle Commission Tells How Its Funds Are Spent

HARRISBURG—The state's Gettysburg Centennial Commission today defended its $128,000 budget for this week's commemoration of the bloody three-day battle that decided the outcome of the Civil War.

The commission came under Democratic fire in the House last week for failing to stay within the $100,000 appropriation voted by the 1961 session.

House members, after reluctantly agreeing to a $28,000 deficiency appropriation, balked at a Senate amendment to make the figure $35,000 and complained that the cost of the commemoration threatened to exceed that of the actual battle.

CIVIL WAR PAY SCALES

The Union's 87,000 battle troops had a pay scale ranging from $13 a month for privates to $315 for one-star generals.

The 75,000 participating Confederate troops didn't do as well; privates got $11 a month and brigadier generals $301 monthly.

The uproar in the House and the possibility of returning to the legislature for more funds had the commission putting its best foot forward today.

"We are doing everything possible to keep costs down," an official said.

"At the same time, we are certain that the observance will be a matter of pride to all Pennsylvanians."

The commission's largest single budget item, one of $15,000 for "tentage" for National Guard troops, the official explained, actually is military pay for 5,000 guardsmen who will march in Tuesday's parade.

$12,000 FOR RATIOMS

The commission has earmarked $12,000 for rations. Of this $5,000 will go for meals for the guardsmen using field kitchens and $3,000 for boxed lunches for the 1,100 costumed volunteers who will reenact Pickett's Charge on Wednesday.

Pickett's Charge will be electrically augmented.

A stereophonic tape, produced by a New York studio for $3,500, will blare the roar of cannon and the sound of rifle and pistol shots. The tape will be broadcast over a 30-speaker system costing $3,800.

Travel, food and lodging for 10 governors and representatives of 17 other participating states will come to another $11,500. Louisiana and Tennessee, alone of the 29 states represented in the battle 100 years ago, will not be represented.

Travel expenses for participating bands in Tuesday's parade also will be charged up to this account.

Other expenses include: Professional music, $1,500; parade floats, $1,650; medals for participants, $2,000; latrines, $2,000; promotional expenses, $4,325; platforms, $3,000; directional signs, $1,800; public liability insurance, $1,250; and telephones, $3,379.

Personnel expenses include Adele Nathan, New York City, coordinator, $12,500; Louis M. Simon, New York City, producer, $8,000; George Kabusk, New Cumberland, public relations director, $5,250, and $5,000 split among Ben Grauer, New York City announcer; George Fielding Elliott, New York military analyst, and Walter Abel, film and television actor, for their roles as master of ceremonies, consultant and narrator, respectively.

HAVE A GOOD TRIP! Travel offers more relaxation and reward when you follow these tested tips:

DON'T overload with clothes or luggage. Quantities of either become a nuisance to look after, and sometimes costly. Concentrate on a minimum of basic costume changes in coordinated colors and easy-care fabrics. Then no more than three bags could be needed:

A handbag large enough to hold such needs for a day en route as a sweater, spare stockings and touch-up cosmetics; an overnight case or small duffel to house necessities for a night en route, plus essential changes and the bulk of your toiletries; a 22-inch suitcase for major wardrobe items.

DO read up beforehand on the sights and customs on your itinerary. Once embarked, shelve your everyday thinking and absorb the passing scene with an open mind. DON'T upstage fellow travelers or the places you visit. Those who say that things are bet-

DROP DEATH PENALTY RULE IN NEW YORK

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The mandatory death penalty for persons convicted of premeditated murder was abolished in New York State today.

Under a law effective today, the penalty for premeditated murder will be life imprisonment unless the jury, meeting in a separate session after returning a verdict, agrees unanimously on the death penalty.

New York thus became the last state in the nation to eliminate the mandatory death sentence in convictions for premeditated murder.

DROP DISTINCTIONS

In the change, the state also has eliminated a long-standing distinction between first-degree murders—premeditated and felony.

"Felony murder" is the designation for a slaying committed during a crime, such as robbery or arson, and not necessarily premeditated. All persons who participate in the crime are subject to charges of first-degree murder, regardless of which one did the actual killing.

Henceforth, there will be no distinction in first-degree murder cases in setting the penalty. It will be life imprisonment unless the jury recommends death.

59 STUDENTS FLY TO CUBA FOR CHECKOUT

HAVANA (AP) — The spokesman for 59 American students who evaded U.S. restrictions by flying to Cuba via Communist Czechoslovakia says the Cuban Student Federation invited them and agreed to pay all expenses.

The American students arrived Sunday on their self-styled fact-finding visit despite a warning of possible prosecution when they return home.

"They (U.S. authorities) menaced us with prison or fines," said Levi Laub, 27 of New York, spokesman for the group. "Well, they are afraid we will learn what papers say on Cuba is lies."

COLUMBIA STUDENT

Laub, who said he is a student at Columbia University, added, "We came to Cuba to see for ourselves whether or not we like what is happening here."

Another student called the trip a defense of the right of free travel. Helen Fleming, 18, San Francisco, said she didn't think the group had broken any law.

The group flew from Prague, Czechoslovakia, in a Cubana Airlines plane and was put up at the luxurious Hotel Riviera.

ter back home should have stayed there. Unless travel broadens one's knowledge and understanding, it really is pointless.

DO honor local customs—like avoiding shorts where taboo. Only think how offended you are when visitors to your town behave in a disrespectful manner.

In other words, let gracious manners rule your conduct. Above all else, graciousness insures smooth passage. Moreover, it wins entree to people and privileges not listed in a guide book. And they, of course, are the most rewarding.

Believe Reds Make More Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says it has inconclusive evidence of possible recent Soviet nuclear tests of very low yield.

"The evidence remains inconclusive and it is expected that more definite conclusions must await further evidence and analysis," an AEC spokesman said in a brief announcement prompted by published speculation of such tests.

An informed source said a Soviet test in the range of one kiloton apparently did take place June 12, two days after President Kennedy announced the halt of any further U.S. atmospheric tests provided other nuclear nations also refrained.

However, the prevailing guess among Washington officials was that if the Soviets did conduct a test, it was an underground rather than an atmospheric explosion.

NAACP Eyes Rose Parade Changes

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People wants Pasadena's famous Tournament of Roses parade desegregated.

Spokesmen for the NAACP at a meeting Saturday said "discrimination has characterized the Tournament of Roses parade and other events for decades, especially the procedures used to select the rose queen and her court."

The Negroes said, "If satisfaction is not given by the all-white Tournament of Roses Association, we contemplate a demonstration of 10,000 marchers in the next parade."

BANDA'S BODYGUARD

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — An Austrian and two Portuguese teen-agers were reported beaten up by Nyasaland Prime Minister Hastings Banda's bodyguard Sunday when they failed to get their car out of Banda's way fast enough.

The Austrian was identified as Joseph Kniel, 27. The names of the Portuguese were not learned.

ACTS TO AVOID SEGREGATION IN BUSINESS

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy declared Monday that segregation of privately owned businesses that serve the public is "one of the most embittering forms of racial discrimination," and asked Congress to outlaw it.

Testifying in behalf of a key provision of President Kennedy's civil rights package, the attorney general told the Senate Commerce Committee that such discrimination is an insult and humiliation to millions of American citizens.

Describing what he called "the immoral logic of bigotry," Kennedy said in his prepared statement:

ACCEPT REDS

"White people of whatever kind—even prostitutes, narcotics pushers, Communists or bank robbers—are welcome at establishments which will not admit certain of our federal judges, ambassadors and countless members of our armed forces."

Kennedy, generally following the same arguments he presented in testifying for the rights package last week before a House subcommittee, said the administration bill to outlaw segregation in public accommodations would set no legislative precedent and deny no right except "the right to discriminate—so plainly a right to commit wrong."

In the Senate, the public accommodations provision is not only up against stiff opposition from Southerners who have denounced it as an assault on private property rights but it also lacks the support of Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

SUBSTITUTE BILL

Dirksen has introduced a substitute bill that would rely on persuasion, rather than compulsion, to end discrimination in places catering to the public.

The attorney general said the private property argument "should be rejected as a smoke-screen."

"It would be far better if problems like this were handled by the state and local authorities, but in many areas where even so basic a right as voting is still frequently denied to Negroes, there is no hope in the near future that state and local authorities will act to eliminate this kind of discrimination," he said.

Contending that federal action is "emphatically necessary," Kennedy said:

"How can we say, to a Negro in Jackson (Miss.): 'When a war comes you will be an American citizen, but in the meantime you're a citizen of Mississippi and we can't help you.'"

Kennedy, in testifying before a House Judiciary subcommittee last week, indicated he might be willing to compromise on the public accommodations provision to the extent of exempting small-business establishments.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration announced plans Monday for an 18-month study of state and local food and drug laws and their enforcement.

The study "should bring to light any needed improvement in laws, organization and support for federal-state coordination," FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick said in a statement.

You mean to tell me that Gas will cool as well as heat my house?

Yes, indeed! You can get a single, all-year Gas Air Conditioning unit that heats, cools, dehumidifies, circulates, ventilates and cleans the air in your whole home—silently, automatically, thriftily. All you do is set the dial for the temperature you want, summer or winter.

Or, if you already have a forced-air Gas heating system in your home, you can convert it for summer air conditioning. Just add on a Gas central cooling unit; you can probably use the warm air ducts already in place. And remember, because a thrifty Gas flame does both the heating and cooling jobs, your operating costs stay low. Trooper Angelo Altavilla Is Gov. Scranton's Guard

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP)—This is a biography of sorts about a cop, although not just any run-of-the-mill cop. There's something special about this one, it only because of his position. He's Gov. Scranton's personal bodyguard.

His name, Angelo Altavilla, state trooper.

His job, to protect the governor—whether he be a Scranton, Lawrence or Leader — from cranks, quacks and, if there are any around, would-be assassins.

BODYGUARDS CHANGE

Like governors, bodyguards change—although not necessarily at the same time.

Altavilla began his tour during the last week of the Lawrence regime, just prior to the retirement of his state police predecessor, Tech Sgt. Les Jackson.

Prior to that he was stationed in Harrisburg doing traffic work, what he had been doing since he became a state policeman in 1951.

CAME AS SURPRISE

Apparently his current assignment came as a surprise to him. As Altavilla recalls it, one day the troop commander told him to replace Jackson while the sergeant took his leave time before retiring in February. He's been there ever since.

Altavilla appears well-equipped physically for the job.

At age 40 the Wilkes-Barre native carries his 200-pound, 6-1 frame with authority as he lopes along after Scranton through the capital.

HAS NO SIGN

He doesn't look like what we've been led to believe a bodyguard should look like, however. No cauliflower ears or battered nose with this fellow.

He has the dark-black hair of his Italian heritage, a fair complexion, a straight-lined face, a firm — although not prominent — nose, a sparkle to his eyes and an ever-ready smile. He smokes cigars.

Altavilla, a personable man, was agreeable to an interview if nobody upstairs — i.e., the commissioner's office or the governor's office—had any objections. There were none.

TALKS OF JOB

This understood, Altavilla sat down at a table in the governor's reception room and talked.

"My job is to provide security for the governor," he said. "I'm to stay with him during the day to see that he isn't bothered or molested by some crank."

"When he's in town, I meet him at the capitol in the morning and take him back to the Gap (Indiantown Gap, the governor's home near Harrisburg). Once he's on the Gap, he's the responsibility of the Gap personnel."

OUT OF TOWN

"When he goes out of town, I go when there's room (on the plane or in the car). When I can't go on a trip, I arrange for a trooper to meet him when he arrives. Somebody should be with him at all times when he's out in public."

"When he comes back, either I meet him or the Gap meets him. When I'm with him, I like to sit by an exit so I can see whose coming in or going out. It's my job to station myself where I can observe."

TALK DRIFTS

The talk briefly drifted around to the potential of an assassination attempt. It was a brief discourse because any such talk can be only theoretical—unless, of course, you happened to be talking to the would-be assassin.

No one really knows how he would react to such an incident. Altavilla only knows that it is his job to be on hand ready to act whenever action is called for.

He carries a state police .38 calibre revolver just in case the action gets hot enough to need one.

IS A MINGLER

It's no secret that Scranton is

SERVED RAILS FOR 68 YEARS

RIVERSIDE, Ill. (AP)—Arthur E. Higgs first boarded his daily commuter train to Chicago in 1895.

Higgs, 82, celebrated Monday the 68th anniversary of that first trip on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad.

He set a record for continuous Burlington commuting, and officials of the line think it may be a national record.

Higgs, 14 in 1895, went to his first day of work as mail and messenger boy with the Weare Grain Co.

"I was paid $4.50 a week in those days," Higgs said. "I worked six days a week from 8 until 5, 6 or 7 in the evening. Sometimes we worked Sunday, too."

Higgs held other jobs later. He now does accounting for David A. Noyes, stock and grain brokerage firm.

When Higgs boarded his usual train at 8:05 a.m. Monday, he found the car decorated in his honor, with breakfast being served. On his arrival in Chicago Higgs was greeted by railroad officials and his employer. He also was honored at a luncheon.

a mingler when he is out in public. Doesn't this present a security problem, Altavilla was asked.

"The governor gets around, but I don't think it's much of a problem," he replied. "He's well-liked wherever he goes."

It is readily apparent in talking to Altavilla that he is a man happy in his work.

ENJOYS IT

"You have to enjoy it," he said, "because of the hours you put in." Much more often than not, the governor's working hours are Altavilla's working hours.

But he doesn't seem to mind that.

"The governor is a nice guy to work for," he said. "He never gets shook up."

Which one might add, is a very admirable trait for a bodyguard, too.

For the record, Altavilla is married to the former Anne Kupris of Wilkes-Barre. They are the parents of two girls, one 8, the other 3. They live in Pennbrook, a Harrisburg suburb.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Welfare Department reports a decline in public assistance for the second straight month.

Figures for the month of May, reported Monday, list 447,600 relief recipients—a decrease of 18,230 from April.

Although the number of recipients declined, expenditures increased $345,740 to a total of $23,157,213. The department said the inclusion of three bi-weekly payrolls in May was the principal cause of the added expenditures.

HARRISBURG (AP)—A Senate subcommittee will hold a public hearing here next Tuesday on types and extent of water pollution from detergents.

The Senate Committee on Public Health and Welfare scheduled the hearing after Republicans voted to recommit a bill authorizing the state Sanitary Water Board to study the problem.

Sens. Rowland B. Mahany, Zehnder H. Confair, R-Lycoming, and Robert P. Casey, D-Lackawanna, will serve on the subcommittee.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Harvey W. Gehr of Fredericksburg is the state Highways Department's new chief engineer, succeeding Edwin ones of Nazareth who retired.

Gehr was appointed to the post Monday. He will receive $12,075 a year, compared to the $16,170 received by Jones.

Wilfred P. Madigan of Franklin was promoted to the post of chief district engineer for District 1, in Franklin, Venango County. Madigan has served as acting district engineer since the death of his predecessor, Harold S. Gahagan.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate is considering the appointment of Loudon L. Campbell of Lemoyne as a member of the Unemployment Compensation Board of Review.

Campbell was named by Gov. Scranton Monday to succeed John S. Giles of Reading, whose term expired. The job pays $13,000 annually.

The Shriver family was the first to settle in the Littlestown area, coming here in the spring of 1734 and taking up land near the present day Christ Church. She was also taken on trips to Heidelberg, Ludwigshafen and other points of interest in the Rhine "alley."

JURY PONDER'S MURDER CASE

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The Hinds County grand jury which will consider the case of Byron de La Beckwith, accused of murdering Negro integration leader Medgar Evers, convened Monday. Dist. Atty. William Waller said Beckwith's case would be presented to the 18-man panel Tuesday with a final jury report expected by the end of the week.

The case was among 50 or 60 to be considered by the jury after it had been charged by Circuit Court Judge Leon Hendrick. The jury includes one Negro, Ernest Lewis of Jackson.

Beckwith, 42, a fertilizer sales-represented taxes paid to Pennsylvania vendors who failed to turn the revenue over to the state.

Nearly 13,000 liens are involved, Smith said, some dating back to 1956.

"We will issue warrants against all liens," he said. "If unpaid, we will take the vendors before the grand jury."

Adenauer Sees Community Of Free Nations As Key To Permanent World Peace

EDITOR'S NOTE — John M. Hightower, Pulitzer Prize-winning AP diplomatic reporter in Washington who accompanied the press party with President Kennedy, was granted an exclusive interview with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany. Here is his story.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, speaking between meetings with President Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle of France, said Tuesday European unity "must develop in close partnership" with the United States. At the same time, he defended the new friendship treaty between France and Germany, saying reconciliation of the traditional enemies "is the prerequisite for any form of European cooperation."

Adenauer expressed these and other views in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press. He also surveyed briefly his 14 critical years as Chancellor of West Germany and summarized the accomplishment which obviously has given him the most satisfaction.

BACKWARD LOOK

"A backward look at the past period of German political life in my opinion," Adenauer said, "shows the greatest achievement in the time that lies behind us to have been the re-integration of the Federal Republic into the community of free nations."

At 87, Adenauer is preparing to retire, and turn over the government to Deputy Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, 66.

But Adenauer does not look forward to idle days at his home across the Rhine, in Rhodendorf, or his vacation retreat on Lake Como in Italy. He plans to write his memoirs, and he is ready to travel for his country if the new administration wants him to do so.

RECEIVES DE GAULLE

The interview took place in the Palais Schaumburg, where a week ago Adenauer conferred on Atlantic policy problems with President Kennedy. There he will receive De Gaulle Thursday for the first round of talks prescribed under the new French-German pact, which calls for regular consultation between Bonn and Paris.

The interview was based on written questions submitted in advance. Written answers were authorized for quotation. The informal exchanges in which he amplified his views were off the record.

The talk covered relations between the Western powers and the Soviet Union, Adenauer's conferences with Kennedy, his forthcoming meeting with De Gaulle, and his own plans. Expanding on the written replies, his comments left no doubt that he is a friend and admirer of De Gaulle and that he was well pleased with his talks with Kennedy.

NO CONTRADICTION

If his reactions appear contradictory, it can be said that he does not see them that way. Adenauer is convinced, as Kennedy also has said publicly, that De Gaulle is committed to the essentials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and that no discussions over policy will break the basic commitment.

Here are questions and answers spelling out Adenauer's views:

Q. Since you and President de Gaulle signed a treaty early this year setting up a special relationship between Germany and France there has been some apprehension in the United States and other Western countries that this relationship might develop contrary to the wider interests of the Atlantic Alliance. What is the purpose of the treaty?

A. If you are to be able to evaluate the German-French treaty rightly, you must see what preceded it in the way of conflicts between France and Germany over the course of centuries. You must see, in addition, that France and Germany are threatened to the same degree by the Soviet Union.

ENDS CONFLICT

The treaty ends a conflict that has stretched over 400 years. It is that fact which gives the treaty its place in history.

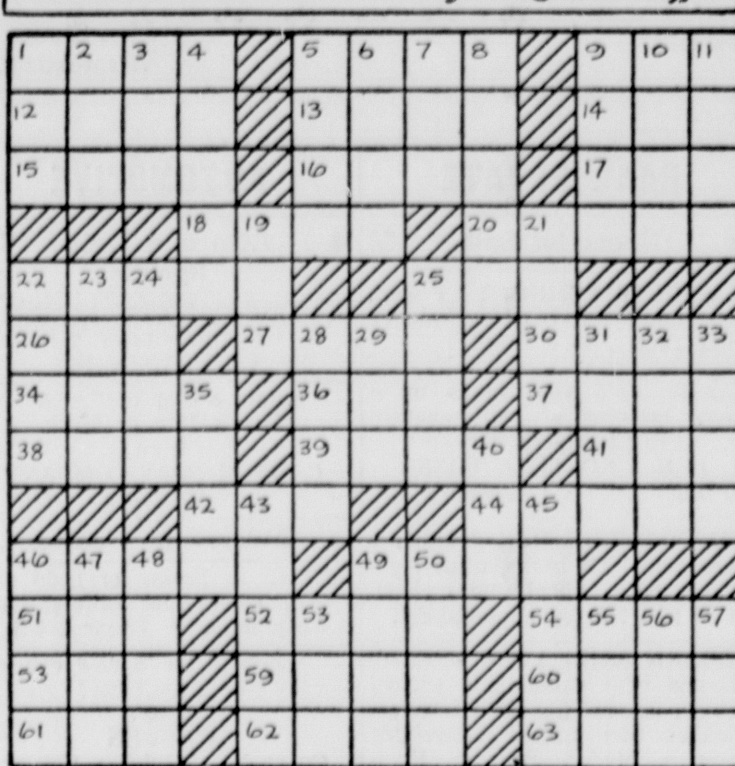

Since the beginning of our political activity in the Federal Republic, it has been our intention to establish a lasting friendship between Germany and France, and to prevent situations in which the two countries once more could be played off against one another.

Both nations today present a firm bulwark against the threat to Europe from the East. This friendship, too, is the prerequisite for any form of European cooperation. German-French friendship is the guarantee of peace in Europe. That is a factor of great significance to the United States.

U. S. INVOLVED

For, as President Kennedy said here in Bonn, the United States was involved in both world wars because Germany and France faced each other as foes. I am absolutely convinced that this treaty will work out not only to the benefit of both peoples, but also to the benefit of all Europe, and of the peace of the world.

So far as the content of the treaty is concerned, in a certain sense it constitutes a model of the content of a treaty which could introduce the first phase of a political community of Europeans.

Q. Mr. Chancellor, you have guided German destinies through a remarkable recovery from the disastrous heritage of Nazism and war into a new historical era. What accomplishment do you consider most significant, most fundamentally important, during this decisive period?

FEDERAL REPUBLIC

A. A backward look at the past period of German political life in my opinion shows the greatest achievement in the time that lies behind us to have been the re-integration of the Federal Republic into the community of free nations.

The German people feel gratitude and friendship toward their allies and have made this feeling highly tangible.
